BIOGRAPHIES

Benjamin Rodman is a junior at Salisbury University, majoring in music, instrumental performance track. He is a part of the Salisbury Symphony Orchestra and studies the cello with Dr. Jeffrey Schoyen. He was immersed into the world of music at an early age since his grandfather was a member of the United States Marine Band for 32 years, having played clarinet, bass clarinet and saxophone under seven different presidential administrations.

Rodman admires his late grandfather who passed away in late August 2013. Rodman's devotion for music has only grown since he took up the cello at the age of 10 and has since then performed with numerous school orchestras, including the All Shore Orchestra and Salisbury Youth Orchestra. Besides music, he also enjoys kayaking, acting, and beating his friends and family at Scrabble. He hopes that someday he will perform with a recording orchestra that performs the music for movie and video game soundtracks. He prides himself on being a diligent, working student since he most recently made the Fulton Dean's List for spring 2022 semester, and he looks forward to working even harder during the upcoming school year.

Gabriella Cox is a sophomore at Salisbury University and is a music, technology track, major. While her primary instrument is piano, she also plays several other instruments ranging from the trombone to steel drums. Having studied piano for 11 years, she now studies under Lyubov Paskova. She has been very involved in music from a young age, performing in plays and musicals since she was 8 years old, and writing music since she was 12. She hopes to write scores for movies and television in the future.
